SNIS/Joint Cerebrovascular Section

Fellows Course

Once Again Offered in Two Meeting Locations in 2015!

February 8-9, 2015
Loews Vanderbilt Hotel
Nashville, Tennessee

July 30-31, 2015
Hilton San Francisco
San Francisco, California
In a field as relatively new as ours, a continuing priority is to invest in a new generation of innovators who will build on the success of those neurointerventional pioneers who have acted on their vision to advance minimally invasive surgical treatments for neurovascular diseases. To that end, SNIS developed the Fellows Course in 2009, to be offered to first- and second-year fellows following the Annual Meeting. Now, with SNIS collaborating once again with the Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting, both SNIS and the Joint Cerebrovascular Section have an opportunity to expand the Fellows Course for greater impact. This sixth year offering, now called the SNIS/Joint Cerebrovascular Section Fellows Course, is for the third year in a row, on the calendar not once, but twice in 2015. The first meeting is scheduled for February 8-9 at the Loews Vanderbilt Hotel in Nashville, Tennessee preceding the Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting, while the second Course will follow the SNIS Annual Meeting, July 30-31 at the Hilton San Francisco in San Francisco, California.

With two distinct meetings, SNIS and the Joint Cerebrovascular Section are pleased to offer our friends in industry double the benefits as well. An expanded sponsorship package will include:

- Visibility at two key meetings for neurointerventionists six months apart that will likely attract two distinct audiences, based on geographical location;
- Discounts and cost savings on a sponsorship package for both meetings

As in 2014, both meetings will offer formats that allow for training across the full spectrum of neurointervention. From presentations to Q&As to discussion panels, participants will enjoy the chance to hone their understanding of neurointerventional treatments, trends and practice. Beyond the classroom, industry will take center stage with the highly-anticipated hands-on workshops that provide attendees an opportunity to handle your device(s) in simulated treatment scenarios and industry the dedicated time to share the advantages of and innovations behind your current products, as well as your plans for future ones.

As the field of neurointervention continues to evolve and mature, it is of primary importance to SNIS that we continue to attract those practitioners with the technical skill and vision to guide our profession through the uncharted territory ahead. As partners in this effort from the beginning, you, our loyal industry friends, play a leading role in helping us to shape the dialogue and educational opportunities that contribute to present and future collaboration. Thank you for your ongoing commitment, not only to our field as it stands, but to our collective vision for the future. With your support, we look forward to great things to come.

- A station is defined as a six foot table. You may skirt the tabletop with your company name and logo.
- Due to the significant cost of simulator transportation and set-up, any company that has purchased a traditional station(s) and is willing to provide a simulator will be given a station for that simulator AT NO COST. The number of simulator stations cannot exceed the number of traditional (non-simulator) stations purchased.
- In both Nashville and San Francisco, each sponsor will have their own private room.
