3rd SNIS International
Endovascular Stroke Conference (IESC)
and Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting

February 4-5, 2013 ~ Sheraton Waikiki Hotel ~ Honolulu, Hawaii
Pre-conference Workshop ~ February 3, 2013

A special welcome to our colleagues from the Mt. Bandai Symposium Neuroscience/Pan-Pacific Neurosurgery Conference
Dear Colleague,

We are proud to announce the upcoming 3rd SNIS International Endovascular Stroke Conference (IESC) and Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting, scheduled for February 4-5, 2013 at the Sheraton Waikiki Hotel in Honolulu, Hawaii. Replacing the 2013 SNIS Practicum, the IESC, in a first-time initiative, will be co-hosted in partnership with the Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting immediately prior to the International Stroke Conference. There are many benefits to such an initiative, but certainly one of the most compelling is that this strategic alignment provides both organizations the opportunity to offer a consolidated stroke program that represents the most comprehensive program for practitioners of neurointerventional stroke treatment today.

This robust two-day program will offer co-hosted as well as concurrent sessions to meet the needs of all participants. The much-anticipated focus on stroke will play out in sessions spanning both days, kicking off with session blocks on iatrogenic stroke and ischemic stroke, the latter addressing such topics as spinal cord strokes, the future of ICAD intervention and predictors of bad intra-arterial outcomes. The following day opens with “stroke debates,” including some lively presentations on controversial topics such as IMSIII as well as a rationale for supporting endovascular stroke treatment and reimbursement outside of randomized trials. Following concurrent session blocks dedicated to stroke research updates and microsurgical revascularization and post-stroke care, the day will conclude with a focus on practical stroke intervention to include talks on treatment devices and imaging. To ensure that attendees get the 360-degree clinical perspective of stroke, the program will also include abstract presentations on both hemorrhagic and ischemic stroke as well as a panel discussion on stand-out cases.

To round out the meeting, the program agenda will include many other neurointerventional topic highlights as well as podium staples from the Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting. Of particular note is the annual Luessenhop Lecture introduced by CV Section Chair Sepideh Amin-Hanjani, MD. Program chairs also expect that a meeting favorite will be one of the final session blocks of the program entitled “Lessons Learned,” which will include presentations from leaders of the field who will review what they learned from some of their most memorable cases. Beyond featured sessions, meeting attendees will have plenty of opportunities to interact with industry through several sponsored symposia, as well as in the Exhibit Hall. And, of course, the agenda will reserve time for some socializing and relaxation at the Taste of Hawaii Reception, which promises to offer as much diversity in cuisine as the program itself.

As the neurovascular field continues to evolve and shape much of the national and international dialogue around stroke and other neurovascular issues, we are at a place and time of real opportunity. And with opportunity comes responsibility. With strong partnerships established on the shared ideal of scientific advancement and quality patient care, we are called upon to not only sustain the season of success that has grown out of two decades of pioneering work and dedication, but to sow new seeds of innovation in our technology, our research initiatives and our commitment to ensure that the next generation of leaders is prepared to carry the torch. As this milestone meeting is emblematic of what we can accomplish collectively as guardians of neurovascular care, we invite you to join us. Together, we can contribute our talents, insights, and vision to water those seeds and bear witness to a field that continues to flourish.

See you in Hawaii.

Sincerely,

Ketan Bulsara, MD
CV Section Program Chair

Donald Heck, MD
SNIS Program Chair

Evening Activity
Taste of Hawaii Reception

You won’t want to miss this culinary experience born of a true Hawaiian tradition. In 1991, 12 Hawaii chefs established Hawaii Regional Cuisine, a culinary movement that inventively blends Hawaii’s diverse, ethnic flavors with the cuisine of the world.

One of the core tenets of the movement is to take advantage of the freshest island ingredients, including: cattle raised on the island’s upland pastures, fruits and vegetables grown from volcanic soil, and fish from one of the best managed fisheries in the Pacific. The result is mouth-watering delights featuring some of the freshest locally-grown foods, fish and beef, all with a distinctive Hawaiian flavor. From Waimanalo greens to Kahuku corn, you’ll have the opportunity to enjoy the very best of the islands. Stop by the reception and be sure to indulge before heading out to dinner.
Sometimes called “The Gathering Place,” Oahu certainly lives up to its name. The third largest Hawaiian island is home to the majority of Hawaii’s diverse population, a fusion of east and west cultures rooted in the values and traditions of the Native Hawaiian people. It’s this fundamental contrast between the ancient and the modern that makes discovering Oahu so enjoyable.

The clear blue waters of Kailua Beach meet the metropolitan cityscapes of Honolulu. The historic architecture of Iolani Palace meets the timeless memorials of Pearl Harbor. The big city of Waikiki meets the small town of Haleiwa on the North Shore. Whether you’re hiking atop iconic Leahi (Diamond Head), enjoying some of Hawaii’s best shopping, or simply unwinding on the sands of the island’s beautiful beaches, you’ll find variety at every turn on Oahu.

The Sheraton is located on the south shore of Honolulu in the world-famous neighborhood of Waikiki, once a playground for Hawaiian royalty. Known in Hawaiian as “spouting waters,” Waikiki was introduced to the world when its first hotel, the Moana Surfrider, was built on its shores in 1901. Today, Waikiki is Oahu’s main hotel and resort area and a vibrant gathering place for visitors from around the world. Along the main strip of Kalakaua Avenue you’ll find world-class shopping, dining, entertainment, activities, and resorts.

With Diamond Head as your backdrop, the calm waters of Waikiki are perfect for a surfing lesson. In fact, legendary Hawaiian waterman Duke Kahanamoku grew up surfing the waves of Waikiki. This Olympic gold medalist in swimming actually taught visitors how to surf at the turn of the century and was later known as the “father of modern surfing.” Today, the Waikiki Beach Boys perpetuate Duke’s legacy by teaching visitors how to surf and canoe and the Duke Kahanamoku Statue has become an iconic symbol of Waikiki.

But there’s more to Waikiki than just the beach. Attractions of Waikiki like the Honolulu Zoo and the Waikiki Aquarium offer fun for the whole family. You can learn about the history of Waikiki by reading the surfboard markers along the Waikiki Historical Trail. Among the various things to do, fantastic surfing and dining can be found all along Kalakaua and Kuhio Avenues and at gathering places like the Royal Hawaiian Center and the Waikiki Beach Walk. And the fun keeps going long after the Waikiki sunset with amazing nightlife and live music.

Best of all, Waikiki is within a half hour of a variety of Oahu attractions, including Pearl Harbor, Iolani Palace, the Nuuanu Pali Lookout and Hanauma Bay. Other notable points of interest nearby include Ala Moana Center, the local neighborhood of Kapahulu and the arts district of Chinatown.

From Hawaii royalty to Hawaii Regional Cuisine, Waikiki continues to be an evolving expression of the ancient spirit of aloha. On these famous shores, the past and the future are uniting in fresh and surprising ways.
There is a registration fee of $100 to attend the Pre-conference Workshop. Please indicate your interest in attending this workshop by checking the appropriate box on the registration form.
